

April 13

Hi Bill,

So I was gonna write you a letter about public speaking, then I saw a video on how they slaughter and raise meat animals. I'm guessing it was true and it was terrible! Beating the poor animals while they were alive, branding them while they were alive, cutting off their tails and balls, slitting their throats, breaking their necks, and all while they're still alive and not sedated. I briefly thought about going vegetarian, but I like meat so that's a dilemma. I don't know what to do. I want a help. I mean they're cramped in tiny spaces, many die prematurely or if you are an amate baby chick, they can grind you alive cause they don't lay eggs. I could eat locally but that doesn't mean the animals aren't tortured. And I hate how everyone goes along with how they treat them, that there's nothing against it. How would we like it if we were treated like that? We wouldn't. This is a hard subject. Kind of like if aquariums are torture to the fish and other water creatures.

Love ~~Sam~~
