

Hi Bill

Dec. 4th november letter

November was a busy month. It was the end of my very first term at college. How exciting. But it meant that all the projects and assignments were going to be due. I had been feeling better, so I guess my stress levels had gone down, but it was still just as stressful, trying to get everything done in an orderly fashion. But I did it. I went home the last weekend to get mom to help me a bit. It was a boring weekend though. Since all I did was homework. Now all I have left is exams. I have 4 starting tomorrow. It should go well. Love
Samantha
