

Hi Bill,

April 2nd

This is my February letter. A couple months late but that's okay. Back in February I got my job at Starbucks. This was my first real job outside of summer camp that I had to do an interview.

My job at the church I was just offered it. I interviewed at the one at VGH, but my hours didn't match their needs, so I was offered the job at the City Square Starbucks. I started February 8th, so it's almost been 2 months now. It didn't take me that long to get a hang of everything! Because of the hours I am available to work, I am often doing the closing. Sometimes on the weekend I open or just day shift. Closing means cleaning. I need to wash everything and prep the stuff for the next day.

That means making mocha mix, getting tea ready, cleaning the machines etc. Sometimes because it is the evening, it is really slow and things seem to get done early. Other times it is unusually busy and there is more rushing than usual.

It's never too boring. Sometimes on weekend mornings it is slow too, then it will pick up or everyone shows up at once. Once internship is done my hours there should pick up too. I'm enjoying it so far. We will see how I feel about it in a few months.

Love

Samantha
