

Hey Bill.

May Letter

June 21st

I'm sitting here in bed, with a bit of a migraine, but I need to write to you cause I'm so behind. I had a sharpie and some scrap paper beside me.

I'm just so busy lately. Mostly with work, I'm trying to pick up more shifts, and I've been working at a few different stores. I'm enjoying it. I get most days of work, and still have time off. Time off to de-stress, visit the city a little bit.

Mathew is always asking me if I'd gotten any ridiculous customers I haven't gotten anything crazy yet.

There was one girl who asked me for an ice cube in her mint tea. So I poured a few in. Then she goes "I only asked for 1, I'm going to need a new tea". What the heck?

And there have been many times where someone orders something, then when they get it they're all like "that's not what I wanted". When really they did ask for a Coffee Frap and not a Mocha Frap they just don't know better.

Love
Samantha
