

Nov 27, 2020

Hi Bill,

Now that the Semester is almost done, and I'm not headed to work everyday, I will have time to catch up on the months I've missed. I honestly do not know where I last left off.

Being laid off is weird. All other times I've left a job I had another one lined up.

This time I don't. I looked a bit when I was first told, but then got distracted with final projects and papers. I haven't looked again recently. I am quite glad that I get EI. I used to be so mad when I would see them taking money from me every month. Well I guess it was good they were! I know what I plan to do short-term..

I'm going to put up my tree, read a couple books, clean the suite, and pass my exams. Anything else is currently up in the air. I'm not too worried. I'll figure it out.

Maybe I'll work with seniors again (not that I can take them out into the real world).

Love

yo
Samantha ♡