

December letter

Hi Bill,

I can't remember if I already told you this, but I'm disappointed in your response! It seems like you tried to take the easy way out by sending me Charlie's Homework. I didn't find that as exciting.

I'm also disappointed Fran sent me an email! No letter as a reply?? Well here's the answer to the questions

1. I did want a good knife for Christmas. Talk to mom about it. She might be getting me that. I DON'T want a sharpener. I want my own set of good knives.

2. Yes Alex is wanting to come with Henry before Christmas. It sounds like she has her own connection to your house and also wants to say good bye. Can't remember how long her plan was to stay. But the floor in the office should be fine.

So, update on my car. Turn out it was the valve gasket cover leaking on the spark plugs. So they replaced the 4 spark plugs, as well as some started or something.

Now, because my car was broken, I was googling various Hyundai websites because I was sad. Low and behold Victoria Hyundai was advertising the Kona EV. Now, I've seen them advertised before and usually it's just advertising they exist. So I emailed to ask if they really had them. And THEY DID.

Because they had some in stock, it was deciding whether or not I take the plunge and get myself my electric car.

Guess what? I went for it. I got the dealership to hold onto the car until I could head to town on Wednesday. Dad went with me and said I did pretty well. It's my Kona EV. So excited to take my step towards saving the planet.

BUT!

You won't believe it. Only 4 days later I got rear ended on main St. Just my luck. Thankfully it wasn't a big car otherwise the damage might have been worse. So now, I won't have a car until Dec 13!

My Mazda is back in Victoria. I'm trying to sell it. Not for expensive since it can't be worth much. Hoping I can sell it and not have to scrap it.

Also, don't tell John about my new car. I want to tell him but I haven't seen him for a few weeks.

Thankfully I've got the garage to plug it in.

Also, I've got a request. When the old tenants moved they left a bunch of junk in the garage, and Mom moved a bunch of stuff outside.

This was back in September when they moved out. I've contacted Kat on a few different occasions to call a junk company but she keeps forgetting.

I also need the garage door clicker fixed, which she also hasn't done.

Would you be able to contact her and ask? My asking doesn't seem to be working.

Anyways, that's my update. I'm currently at Loon Lake on a work retreat. It's okay. A lot of older people

- Love

xo Samantha ☺
