

Hi Bill.

March 13th

This is my February letter. I am way behind.

It's been ridiculously busy trying to juggle my three jobs working into the evening and homework and social time. So far I've managed. It's nice having my set days for the church jobs and guides.

It's the fossil job that moves around.

I had to get an American passport and that was an adventure. I brought my big purse to hold my files. I took a 40 minutes bus to get there for my 8:45 app. I got there and was told my bag wasn't allowed in and I had to store it somewhere. I had nowhere to store a bag in down town Vancouver. So I bussed half way and drove the rest to leave my bag. Once back I got in and went to wait for the x-ray. Then waiting for the elevator. It arrived but was full, so the guard asked if there were any Americans waiting so I got to ride the elevator. Then I gave in my papers and paid. I had to go across the street to get an Expresspost envelope. I then had to do security again, but the whole process was only about an hour. Then I got the passport like a week or 2 later.
