

Hi Bill.

April 3rd
(March letter)

As you know I've been accepted into Disney University. The official name of my program is the International Academic Exchange. I first noticed this program a couple years ago, but didn't want to apply yet because I wanted to finish my diploma. This past September 2017, since I had my diploma, I applied. The required documents were my passport, why I want to do the program, my top picks for roles, my resume, and personal information. I gave this into the co-op centre in December, and applications closed the last day of January. Only a few days later, February 5th, I got an email saying I was chosen for the interviews on March 16th. Though it was exciting, I didn't ~~se~~ think about it much until ~~the~~ closer to the day. Mom was in town for my interview.

The day of I headed to school early in my formal business wear, for a presentation. The hour long presentation went over cost and how the program is set-up. It was a chance to get questions answered. Then we had interviews. My slot was 2pm - 3pm. There were four of us in the slot, but we had separate interviews: One was with a Disney Rep, and they asked us questions about being away from home, our desired role, dress code, etc. The other interview was with UCR, and she asked about my program and what I wanted to get out of the experience, etc. The next Thursday I got my offer letter.

Now I am making a packing list and buying my plane tickets. For my birthday I'm wanting either money, or I have a list of things I'm wanting I'd be happy to share if you want to know love

xoxo Jam
