

Hi Bill,

Nov 1st

I'm not sure what to write about this month. Your October letter suggested I write about Starbucks, but my August letter was about that.

I haven't done much this month because I've been doing homework. And if I'm not doing homework then I'm at work at school or my other work. I work 20 to 27 hours a week depending. And tomorrow all the Christmas stuff will be out and I'm so excited. I bought a Christmas tree at Costco. I've decided to do decorating.

Because of work, the manager got all uppity about Christmas holidays and how much time people would be getting off. So it looks like I might be in Vancouver until the 24th or the 25th, and then head to Victoria. So that's what the Christmas decorating at the suite will be for. I'll probably be moving some stuff around. Mathew said he would do lots of Christmas things with me to keep my spirits up.

November long weekend mom will be in town. We are going to go see the Cirque du Soleil Kurias on the Friday. We also are going to Ikea, Circle Craft Fair, Granville Island, and who knows what else. I'm so excited. Last time I was home was Thanksgiving. I miss home.

Love
Samantha ♡ (•̀•́)

This one's a little Nov 18th Bit shorter than some of my other one's but that's okay. It's been super sunny here lately, but the rain is coming. Hope it doesn't snow like last year!

Love Sam
