

Bill,

Doing nothing is exhausting. During my month off I really enjoyed being able to keep my house relatively clean. It was easier to keep on top of things obviously. I was able to sleep-in, allowing myself to catch up on all the sleep I feel like I missed during my semester.

Back to my comment on being exhausted. Talking to mom one day, she mentioned that she had been tired, probably because she had been sleeping

So much. I think I was there too.

I was noticing that even though I was not doing anything, I was so tired. And falling asleep at night had been extra hard. Now that I am back on a work schedule, I am not as exhausted, and I'm back to falling asleep at a more reasonable time. Not for long though. Soon school will be keeping me up late.

Love
xo Samantha ☺
