

Hi Bill, July card July 28
This month I was a summer intern. What that meant was that I applied then placed in a camp. I chose outdoor camps. When I got the email saying what camp I would be in, it said pottery camp. I was bummed cause I wanted to be outside and didn't know much about pottery. But I agreed to do it. The first week at camp was teens so I was more of a on looker. The second week, it was little kids in the morning and older in the morning. I work with Suzanne in the morning and Suvy in the afternoon. They are both a blast to work with. On Monday we do hand building and pinch pots. Tuesday is plates with the slab roller. Wednesday is wood sculptures and normally hand building or plates and mugs. Thursday is the wheel. Now I hadn't ever used the wheel before camp, but now I'm okay at it. Friday is glazing day. I normally have to leave early to go to the intern meeting. The first ~~week~~ we went to Arbutus Cove. We as July interns just get together and talk about our weeks. At the beach we walked there and just hung out. The next week we met at the parliament and did a photo scavenger hunt. We were split into little teams. It was a lot of fun. We had lunch then watched a few busker's cause the festival was on. It's always fun. This past Friday was my last day as an intern but also our last meeting. We were making posters for the Carnival. It's in August, the 21st and I REALLY wanna go but dad said it's money to change the plane tickets. I come home the 25th.

Anyways, so we made posters. And I was late cause I went to camp in the morning I helped these two guys with theirs. The carnival is something the interns organise for all the kids at the parks camps. It concludes their little story they had going on. We always also seem to have some retarded type kid at camp. Like they can't function all that well. But they're cute, well the other kids are. So next week I'm working at the camp as a volunteer cause the intern doesn't come in till the next week. I'm excited cause it fills up one of my two weeks that I had nothing. So now I only have one week of nothing. Also, if you're thinking of birthday presents I always appreciate money, certainly since I owe mom and dad. And I need new clothes. I also kinda wanted roller blades. But that was a lesser thing. Anyways hope to see you soon!

Love Samantha ♡ ☺ ♡
